PRESERVATIVES

A preservative is a substance used to prevent the spoilage, decay, or degradation of materials, especially food, beverages, pharmaceuticals, and cosmetics. Preservatives help extend shelf life by inhibiting the growth of bacteria, fungi, mold, and yeast or by preventing chemical changes like oxidation.

SPICE - BOEREWORS

Boerewors spice is a blend of seasonings traditionally used to flavor boerewors, a South African sausage made from coarsely ground beef, pork, or lamb. The spice mix gives boerewors its signature taste—fragrant, slightly tangy, and well-balanced with warmth from spices.

DRY MARINADES/SAUCES

A dry marinade (or dry rub) is a blend of spices, herbs, and seasonings applied to meat, poultry, or seafood before cooking. Unlike wet marinades, dry rubs do not contain liquid ingredients. They create a flavorful crust and enhance the taste of the dish when grilled, roasted, or smoked.
